ANTHOZOA

“smooth layers of opalescent membranes and madreporic bundles of floating anemones sprout in symbiosis with calyces streaked by a fatuous frosting, while clean and enlivened points swiftly spread to mould essential and branched warps”

Animals simulating flowers tickled by the light flow of the water:
a collection of unique biscuit porcelain pieces rises from these fascinations, sometimes made precious by variegated and never the same colors.
