Fornasetti unveils Ceci n'est pas une salle à manger, its surreal interpretation of one of the most welcoming spaces in the home: the dining room. In this illusionistic scenario, where nothing is ever as it seems, décor and objects seamlessly merge in a captivating game of perceptions and fictions, capable of deceiving the eye. Fornasetti furniture and accessories come alive into a theatre of surrealism, blurring the boundaries between content and container, reality and representation.

Fornasetti introduces the latest additions to its collection of furniture and accessories: two new polyhedric storage pieces, the curved bar cabinet and the buffet, boasting adaptable interiors ideal for organizing glasses and table essentials. The Atelier's table collection now includes practical rectangular formats in different sizes, alongside two glass tables resting elegantly on solid wood legs and brass feet that pay homage to 1950s design. Padded chairs are presented for the first time, complementing the table collection with their vibrant fabric patterns that can be effortlessly mixed and matched.

Inspired by Piero Fornasetti's early 1950s decorative projects, such as the Pasticceria Dulciora and Casa Lucano in Milan, these new original patterns infuse a lively, graphic, and contemporary essence into the collection.
