CORNELIO CAPPELLINI

Made in Italy

haute couture OF INTERIORS is the name of the luxury furniture, lightings and accessories collections by CORNELIO CAPPELLINI. The words "Alta moda" in Italian and "Haute Couture" in French identify the luxury clothing sector of the dressmaking. The term haute couture has been combined to the expression OF INTERIORS to make our even more international customers understand our efforts to carry the Haute Couture fashion tradition of the extreme luxury into the interior design world.

TRIBUTE TO LEATHER

With the passing of the years Cornelio Cappellini has developed leathers even more exclusive, thanks to a great innovative skill from a stylistic point of view.

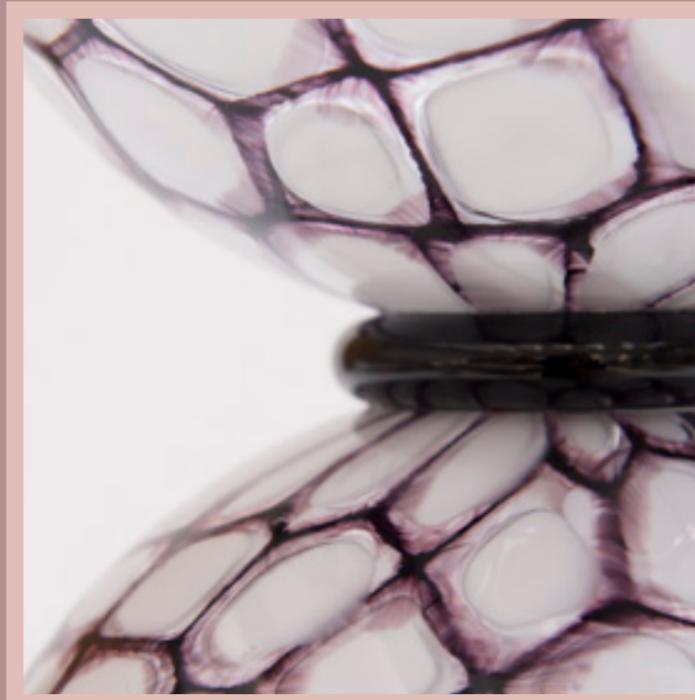

Leather tanning is based above all on chrome treatments in order to grant chemical and biological stability, preserving the softness and flexibility of the leathers themselves.

The majority of the leathers are tanned after different and delicate handmade processes through the use of particular “tampons” in order to exalt transparence and elegance. In this way, a lot of shades and reflections raise the perceptive pleasure of the leather nature.

Other leathers undergo different print or lamination processes that create always different drawings or reflections.

Selected and produced by Italian tanneries, “Cornelio Cappellini leather” is always able to preserve the uniqueness of the items.

TRIBUTE TO MURANO GLASS

The first traces of the glass-making tradition in Venice go back a thousand years even if the real glass-making art develops in XIII century when the furnaces were moved from Venice to Murano Isle to avoid the risk of fires.

In the last decades, the glass-making art has spread to areas external to Murano and has developed thanks to skilled and experienced master glassmakers that everytime realise unique products.

Also today few people know that glass is produced from the fusion of pure silica sand and some metallic particles that colour the glass.

The artistic glass, blown and handmade, requires a group of skilled artisans composed of a master and other three or four people specialized in the different phases of the process. Even today it's said "One is not born a glass master, one becomes glass master!"

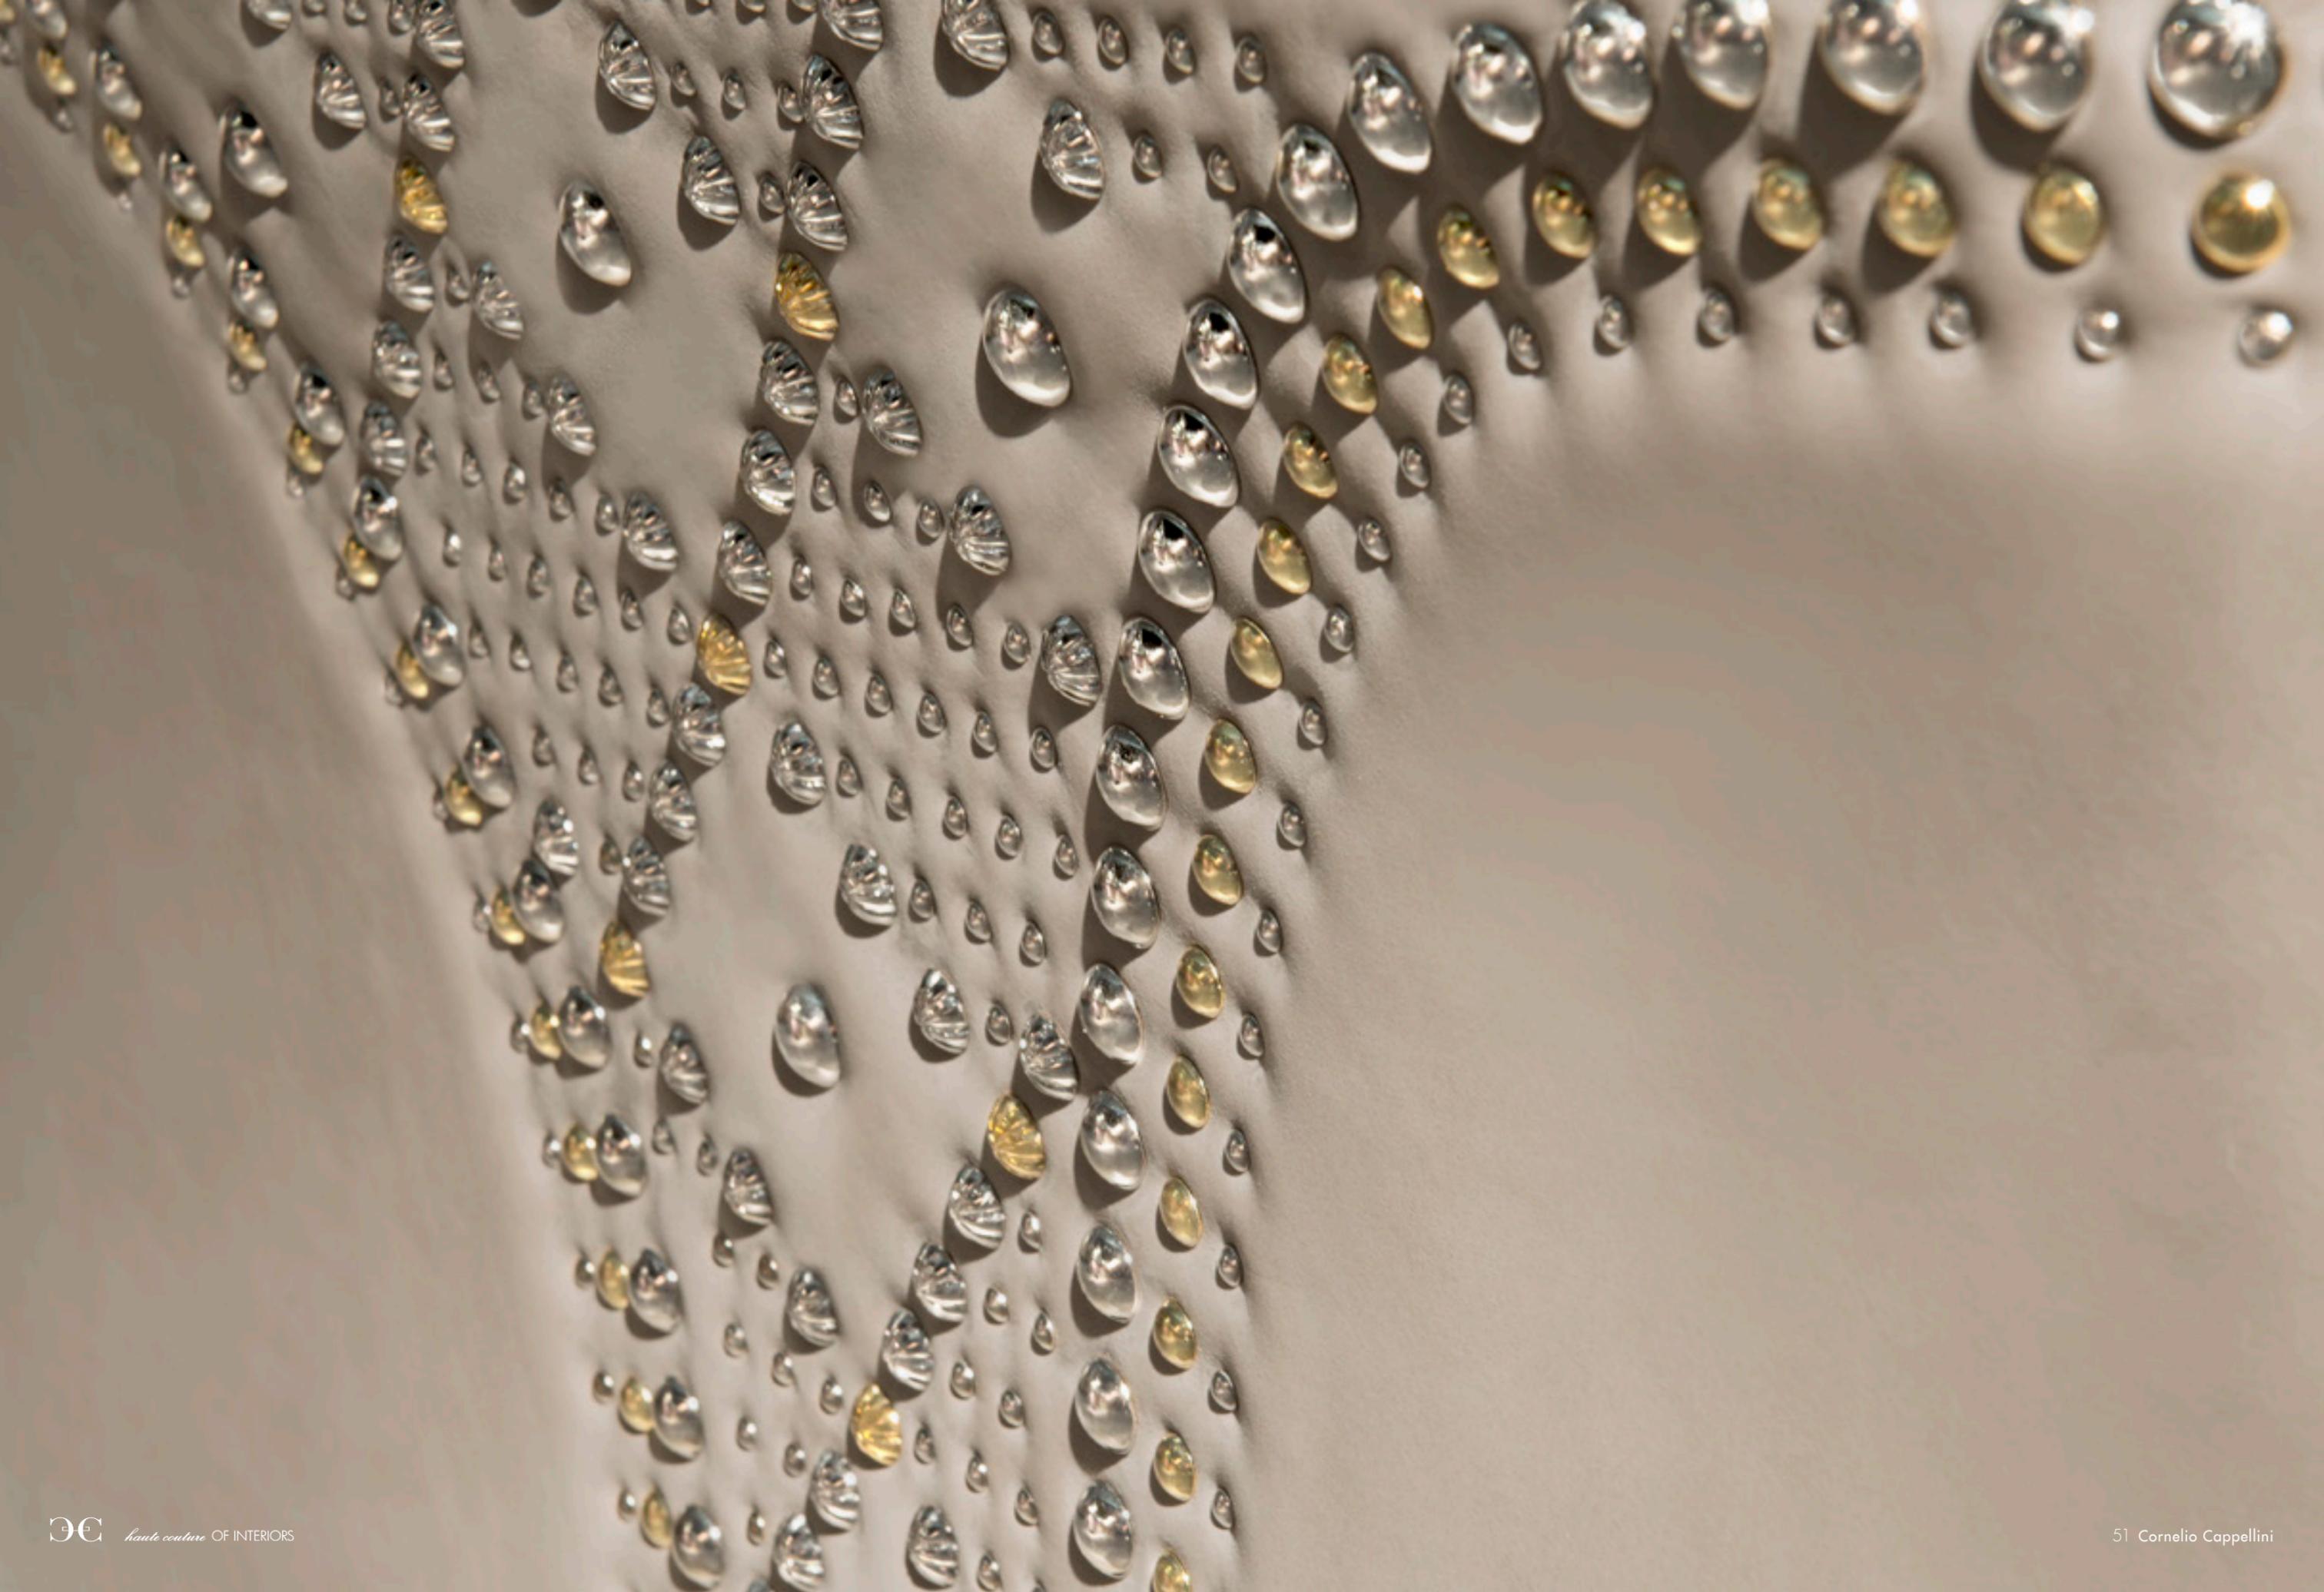

Transparent or coloured, small or big, the magic and uniqueness of these artworks enter the Cornelio Cappellini collections in a very actual way, merging an old tradition with modern and contemporary traits.

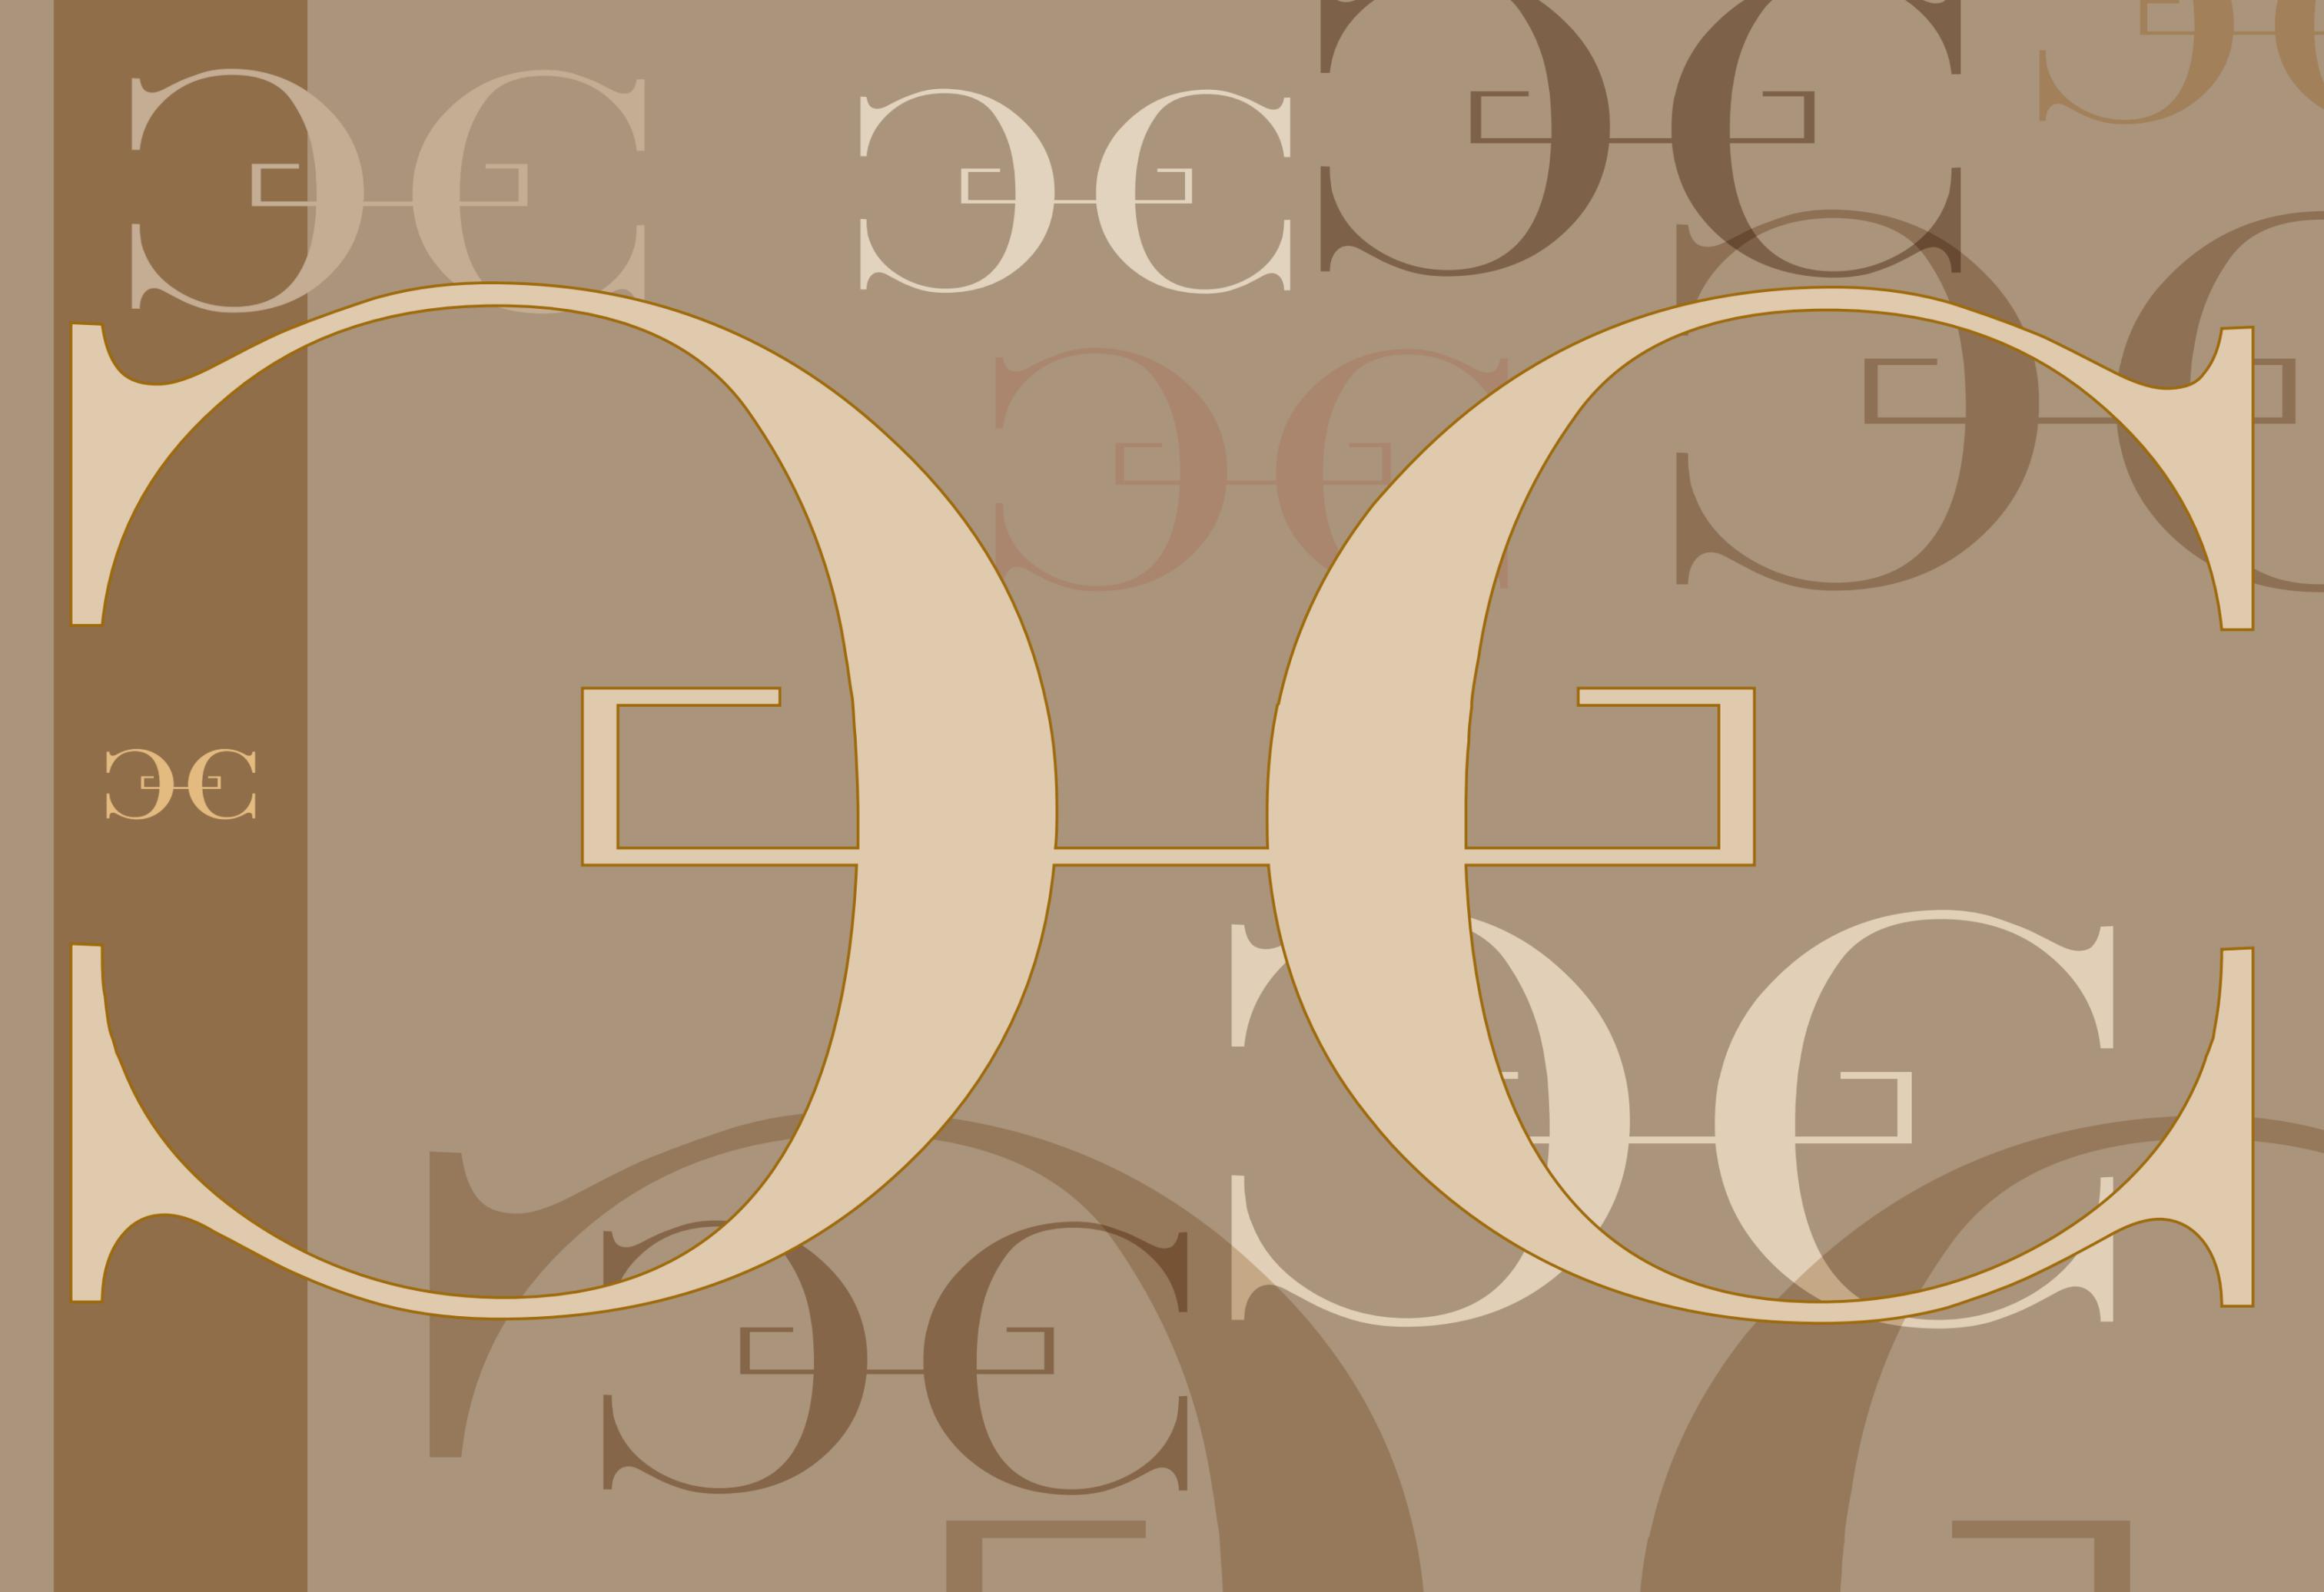

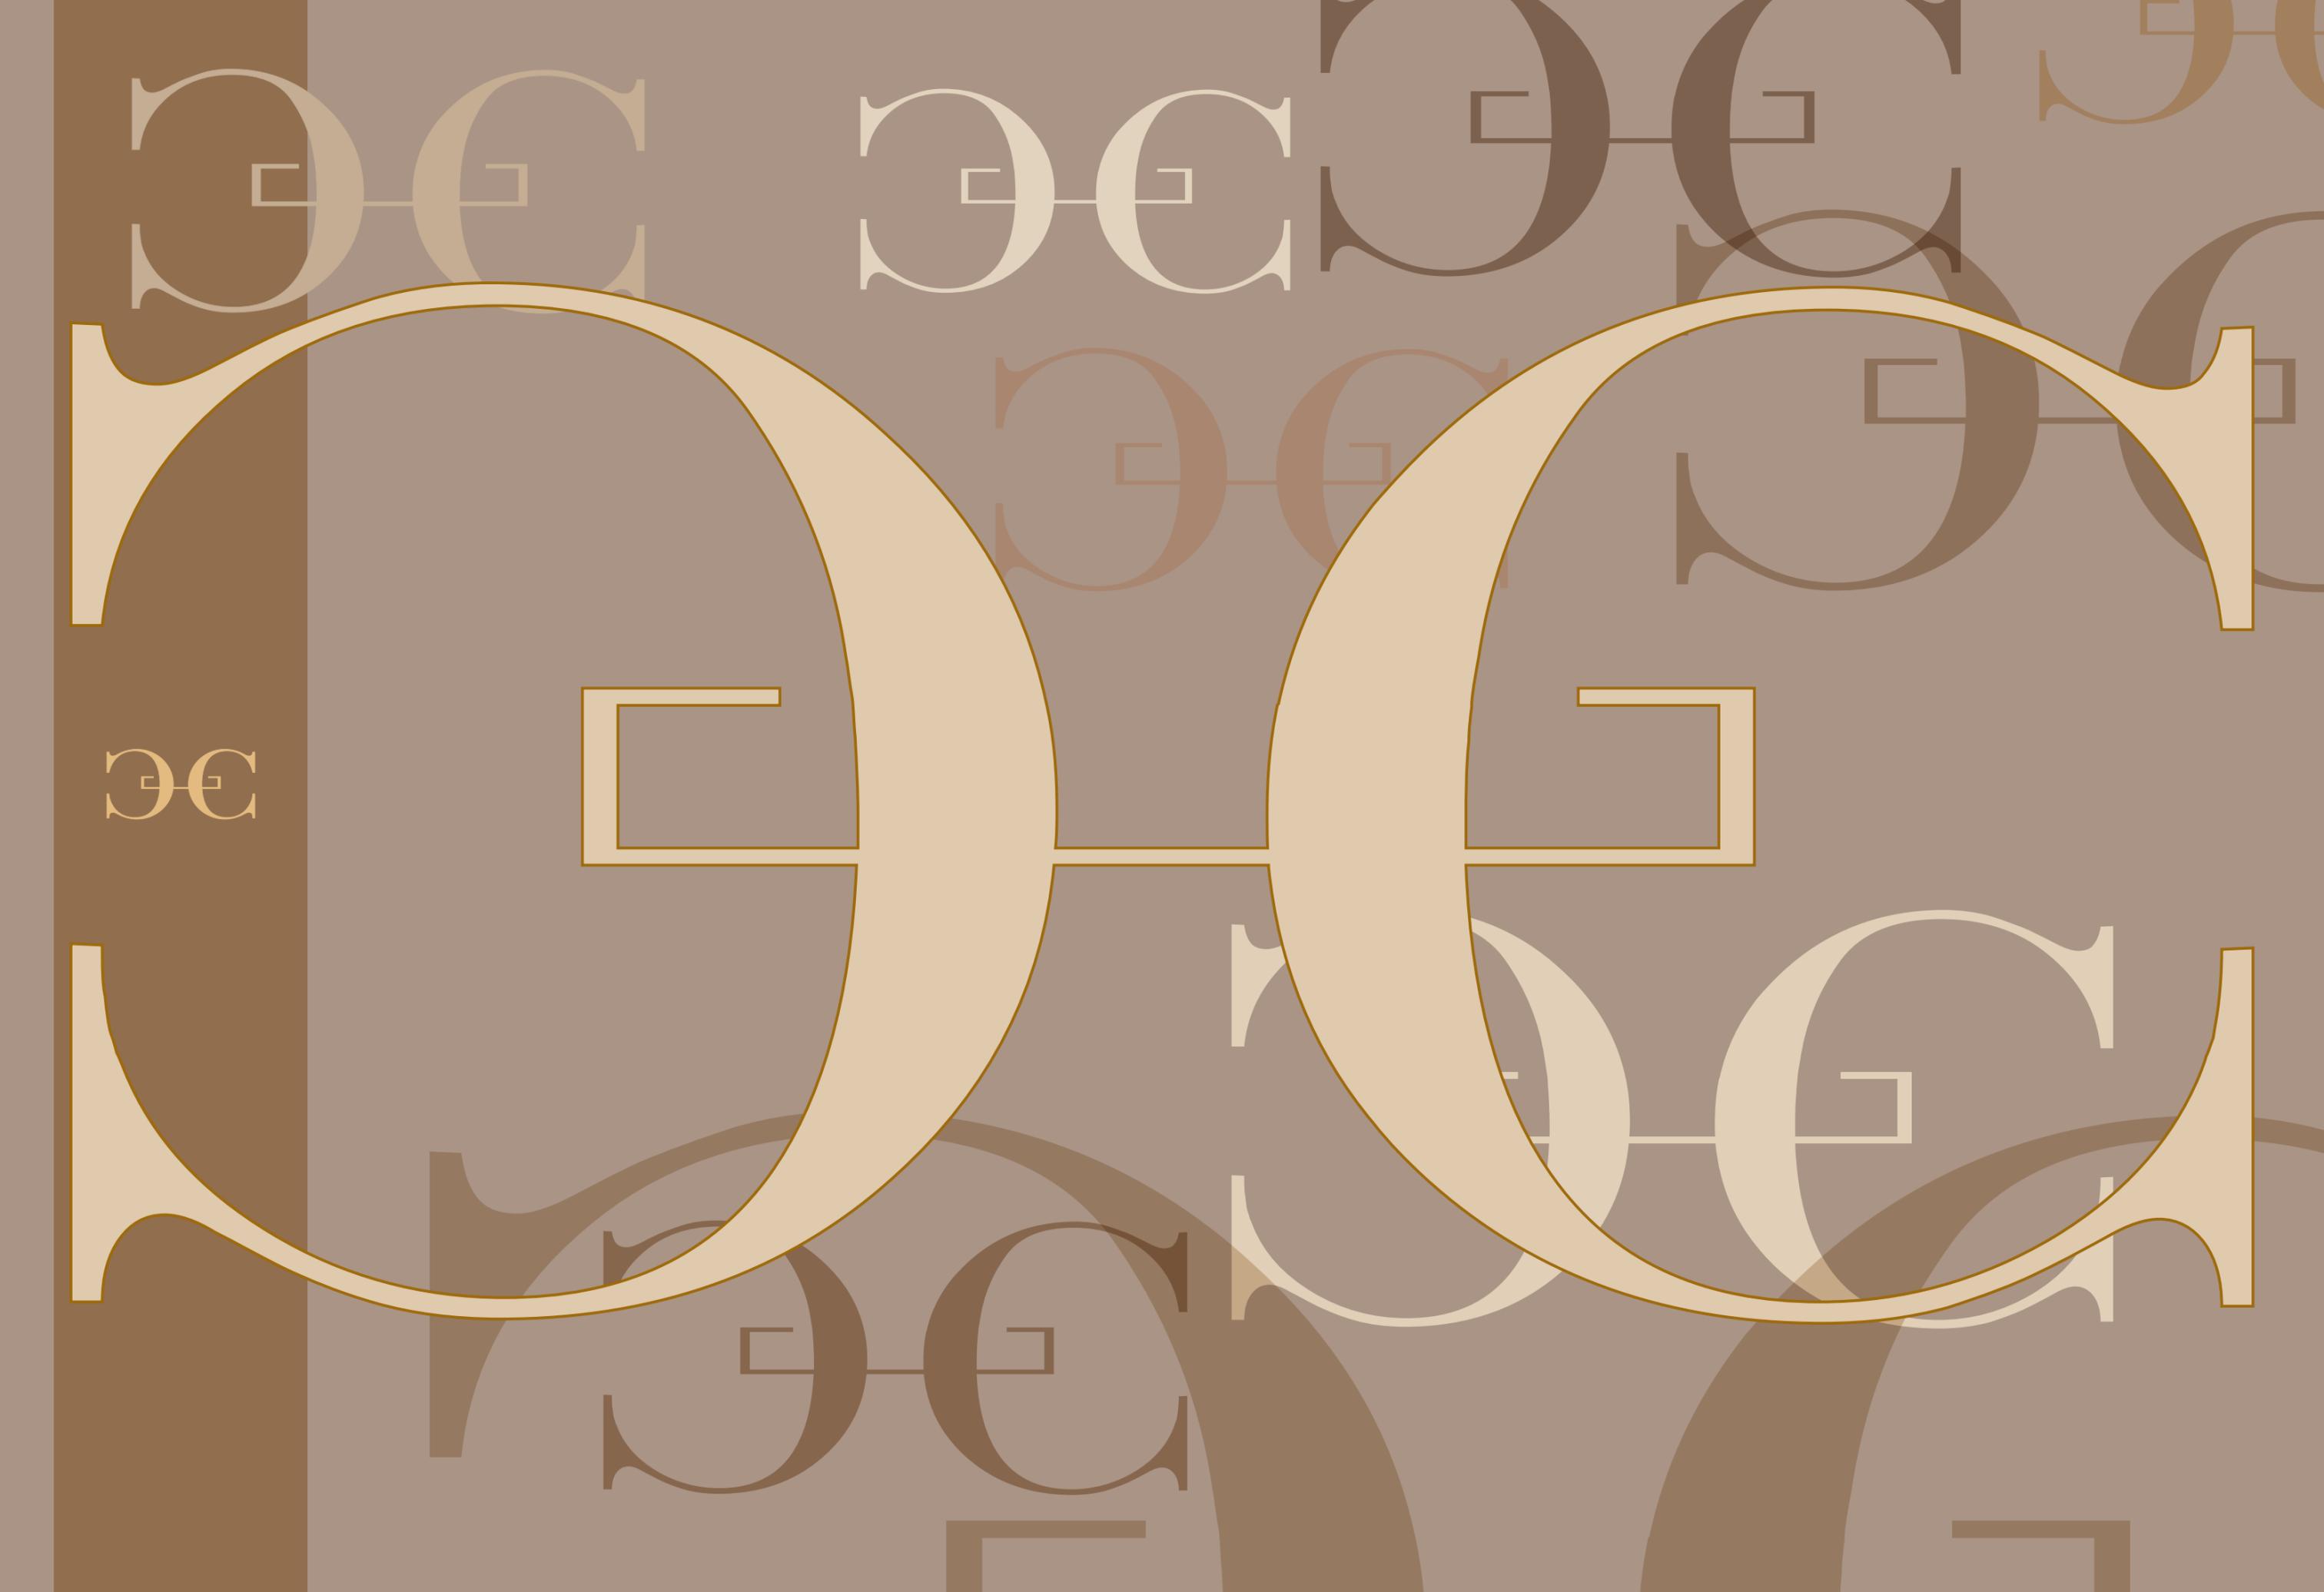

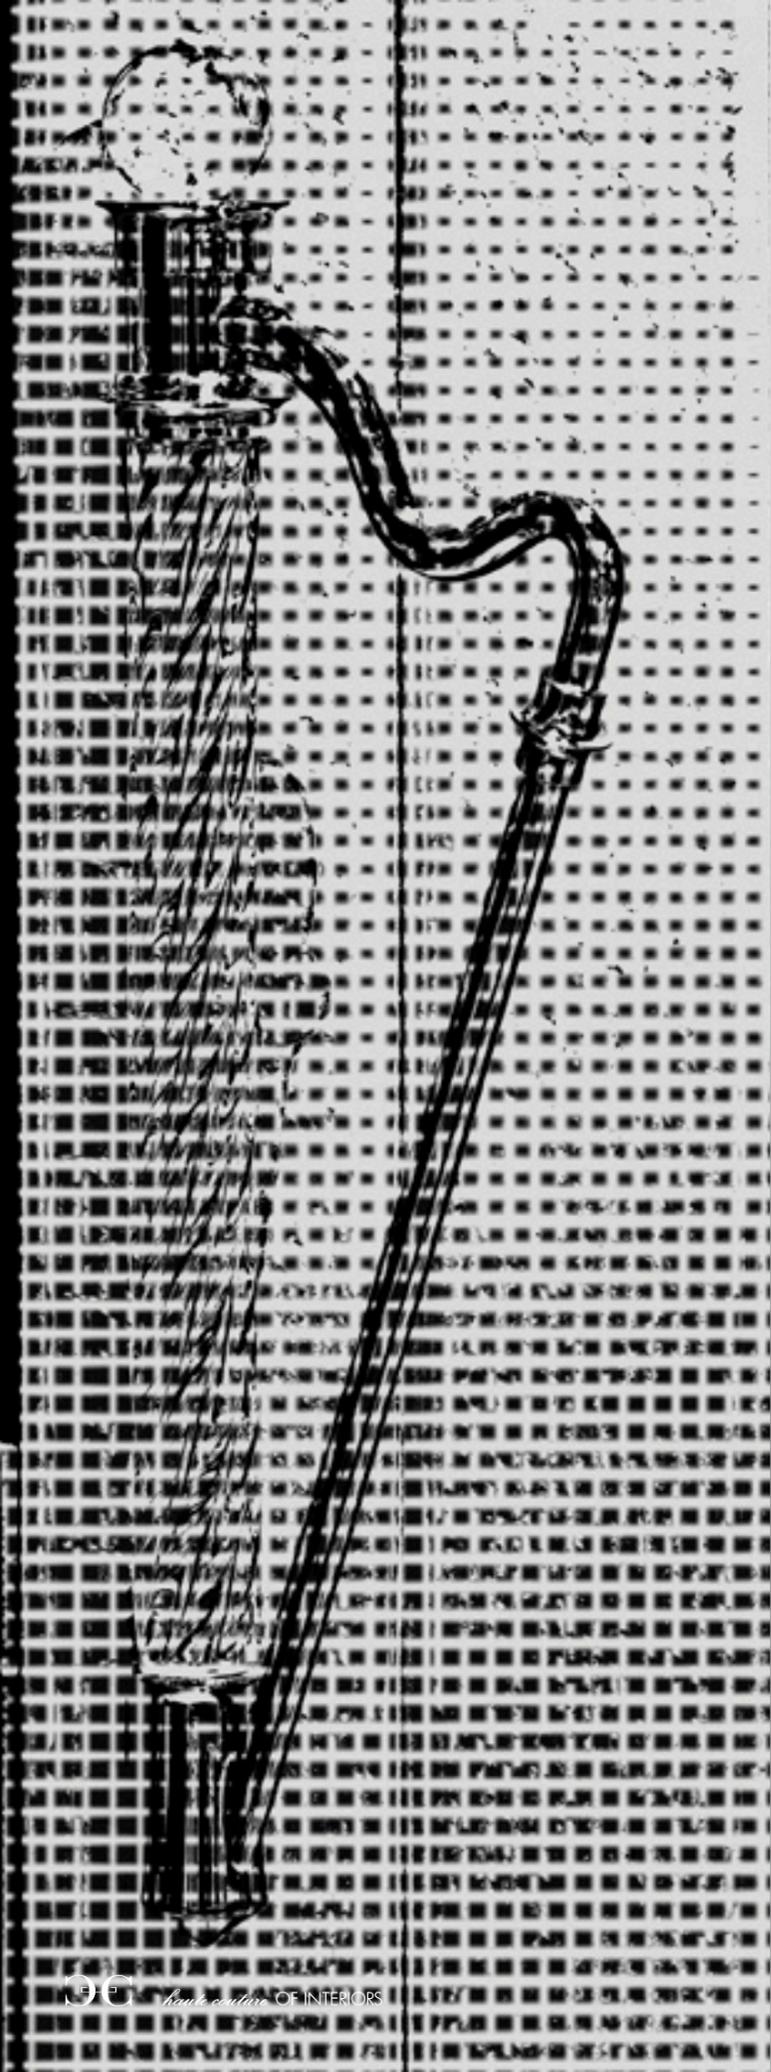

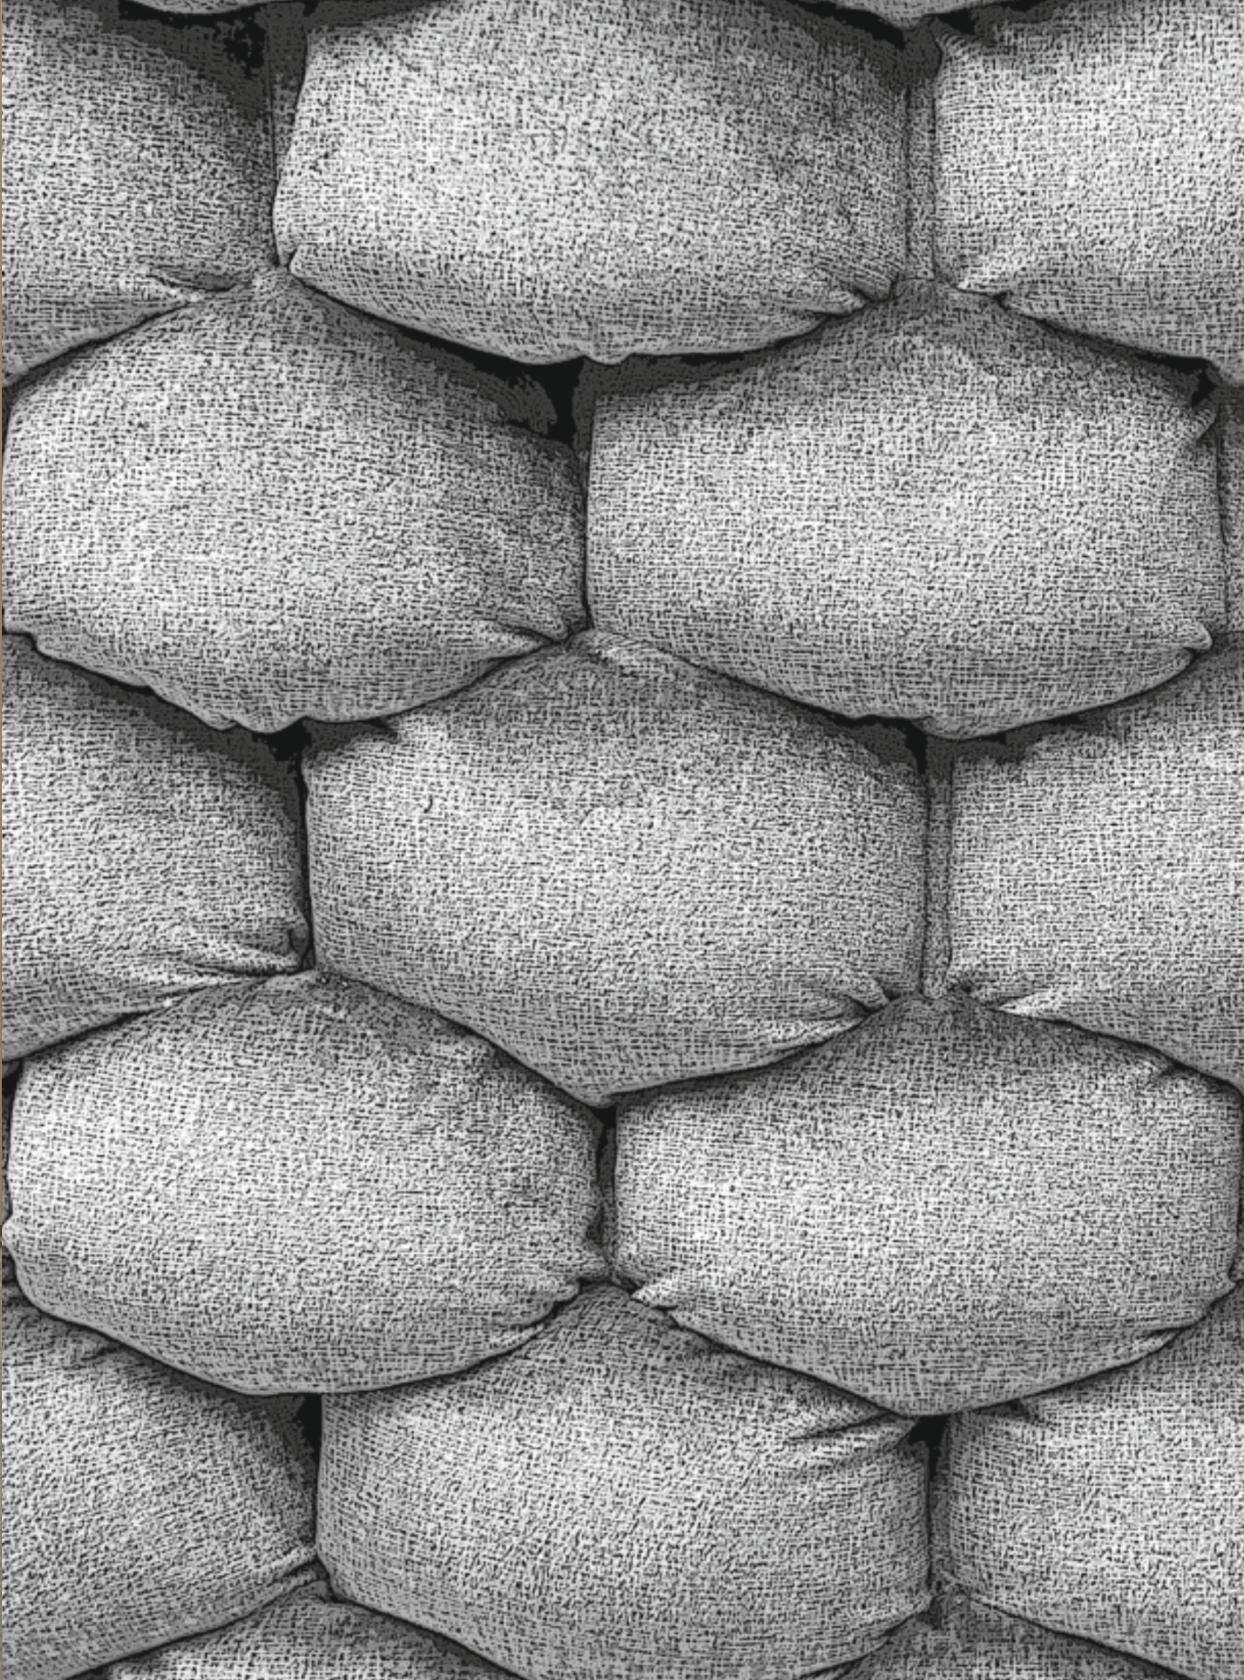

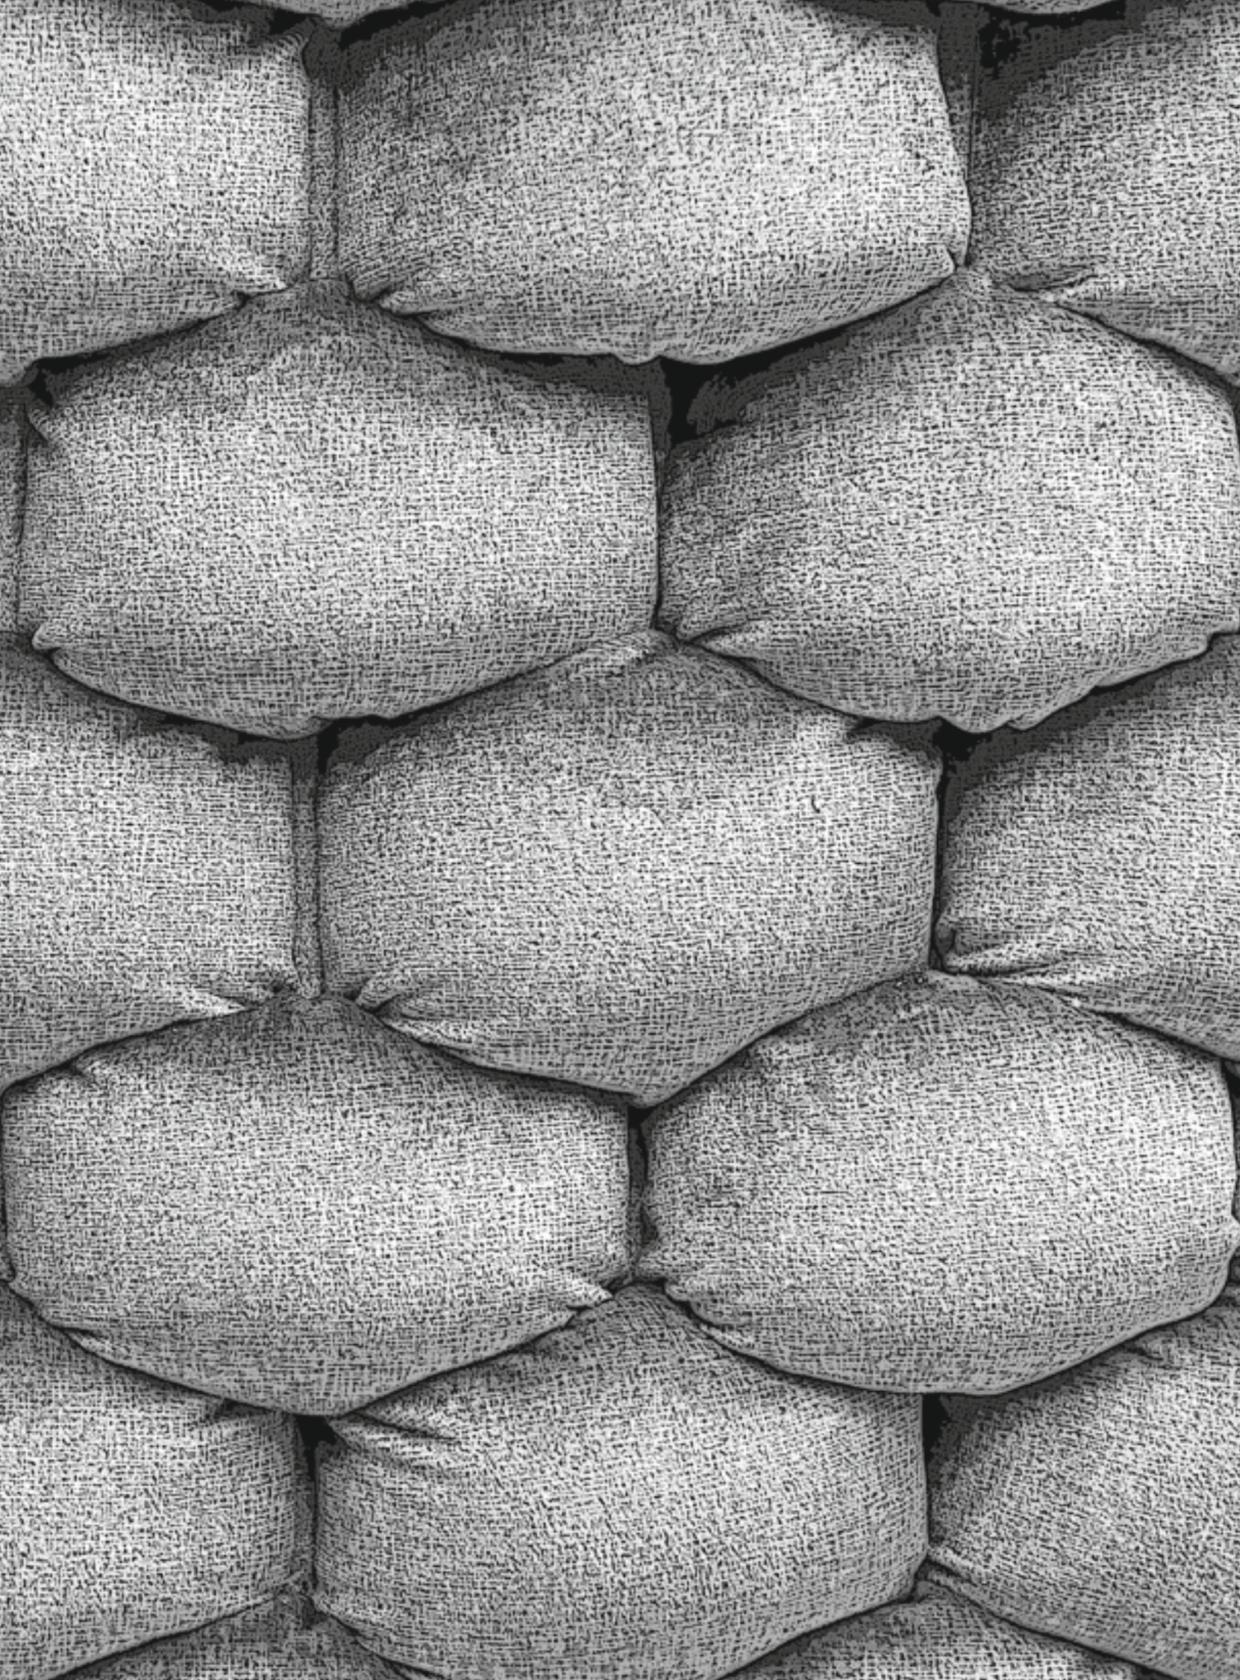

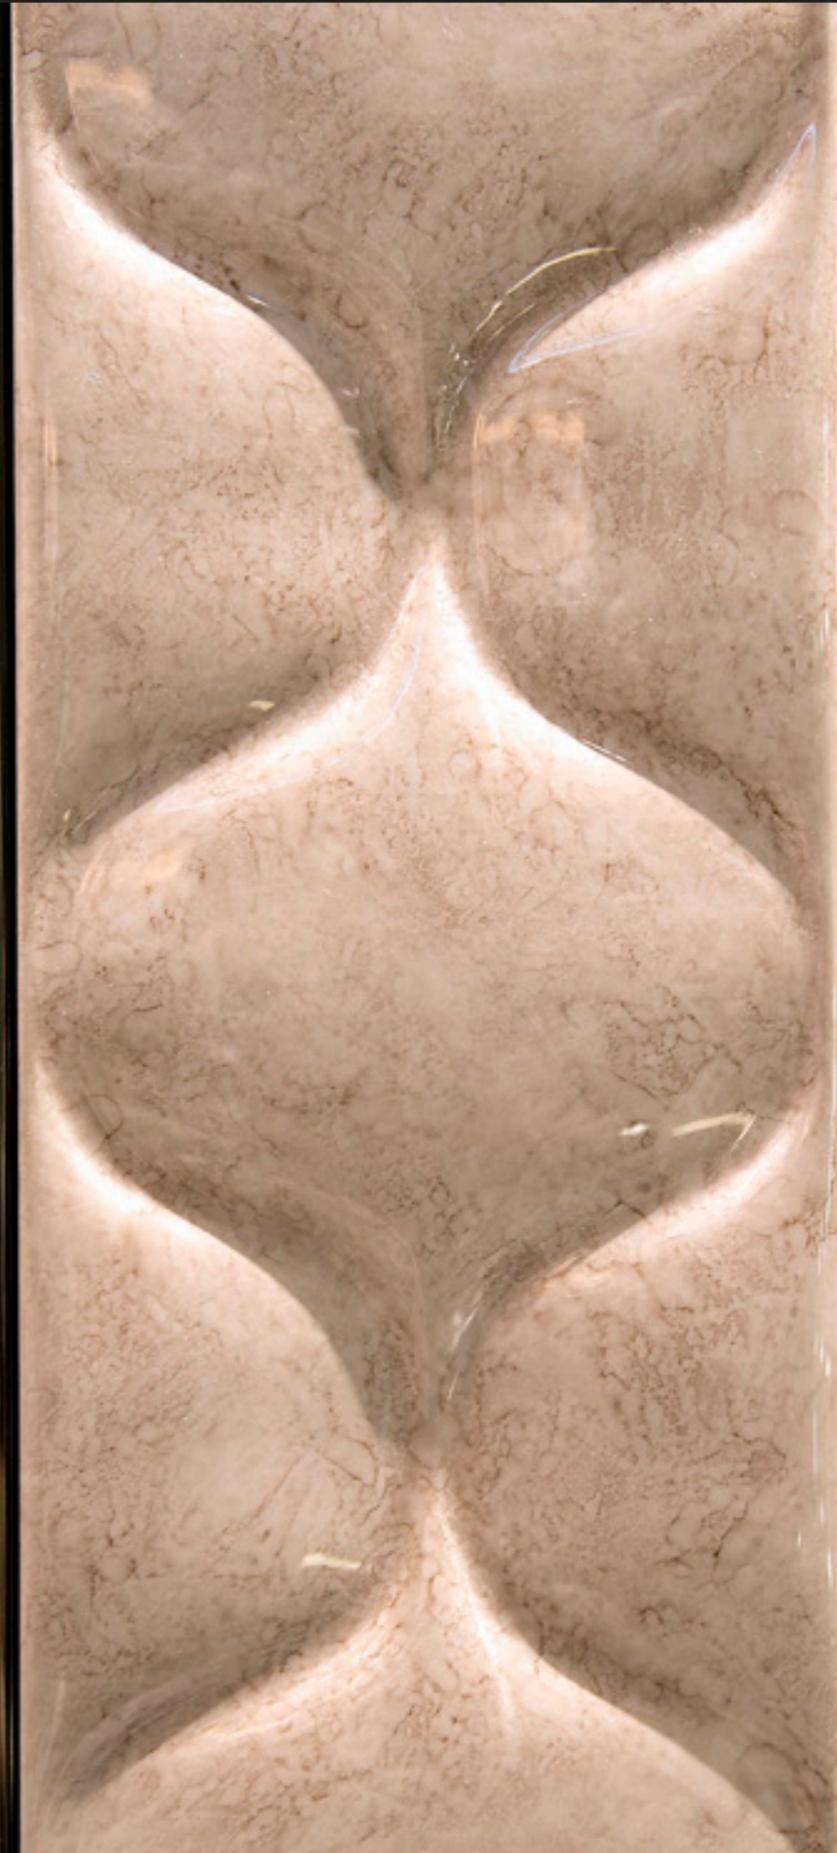

TRIBUTE TO POTTERY

A pottery object is the result of a mixture of clay and water, that after being shaped through a skillful artistry, is dried and put into the oven for the first baking or biscottatura. This phase eliminates water remained during the drying, leading to the change of the surface colour and to the hardening of it.

Then, according to the crystallization phase, the object is decorated and it is immersed into a glaze (cristallina), and then put into the oven for the second time. The high temperature melts the glaze making the object transparent and the colours more brilliant.

It's just thanks to this skillful process that the pottery spheres of this image can embellish our Calipso collection tables.

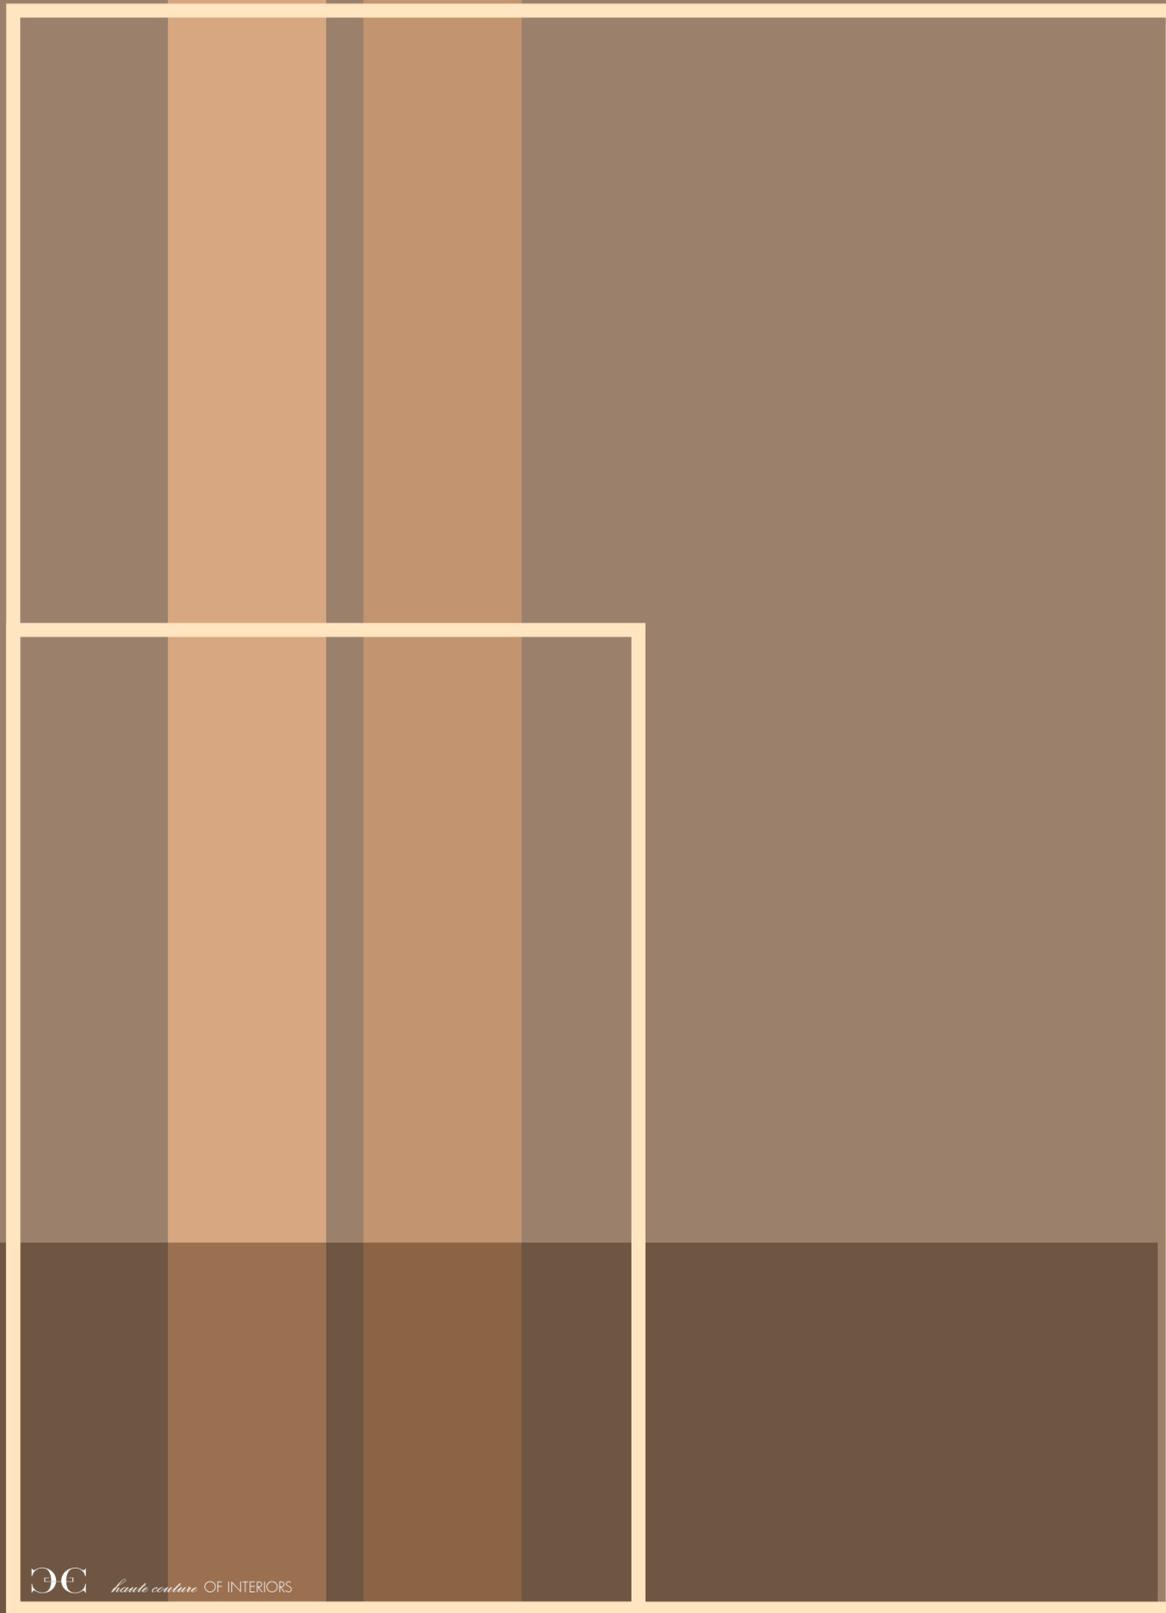

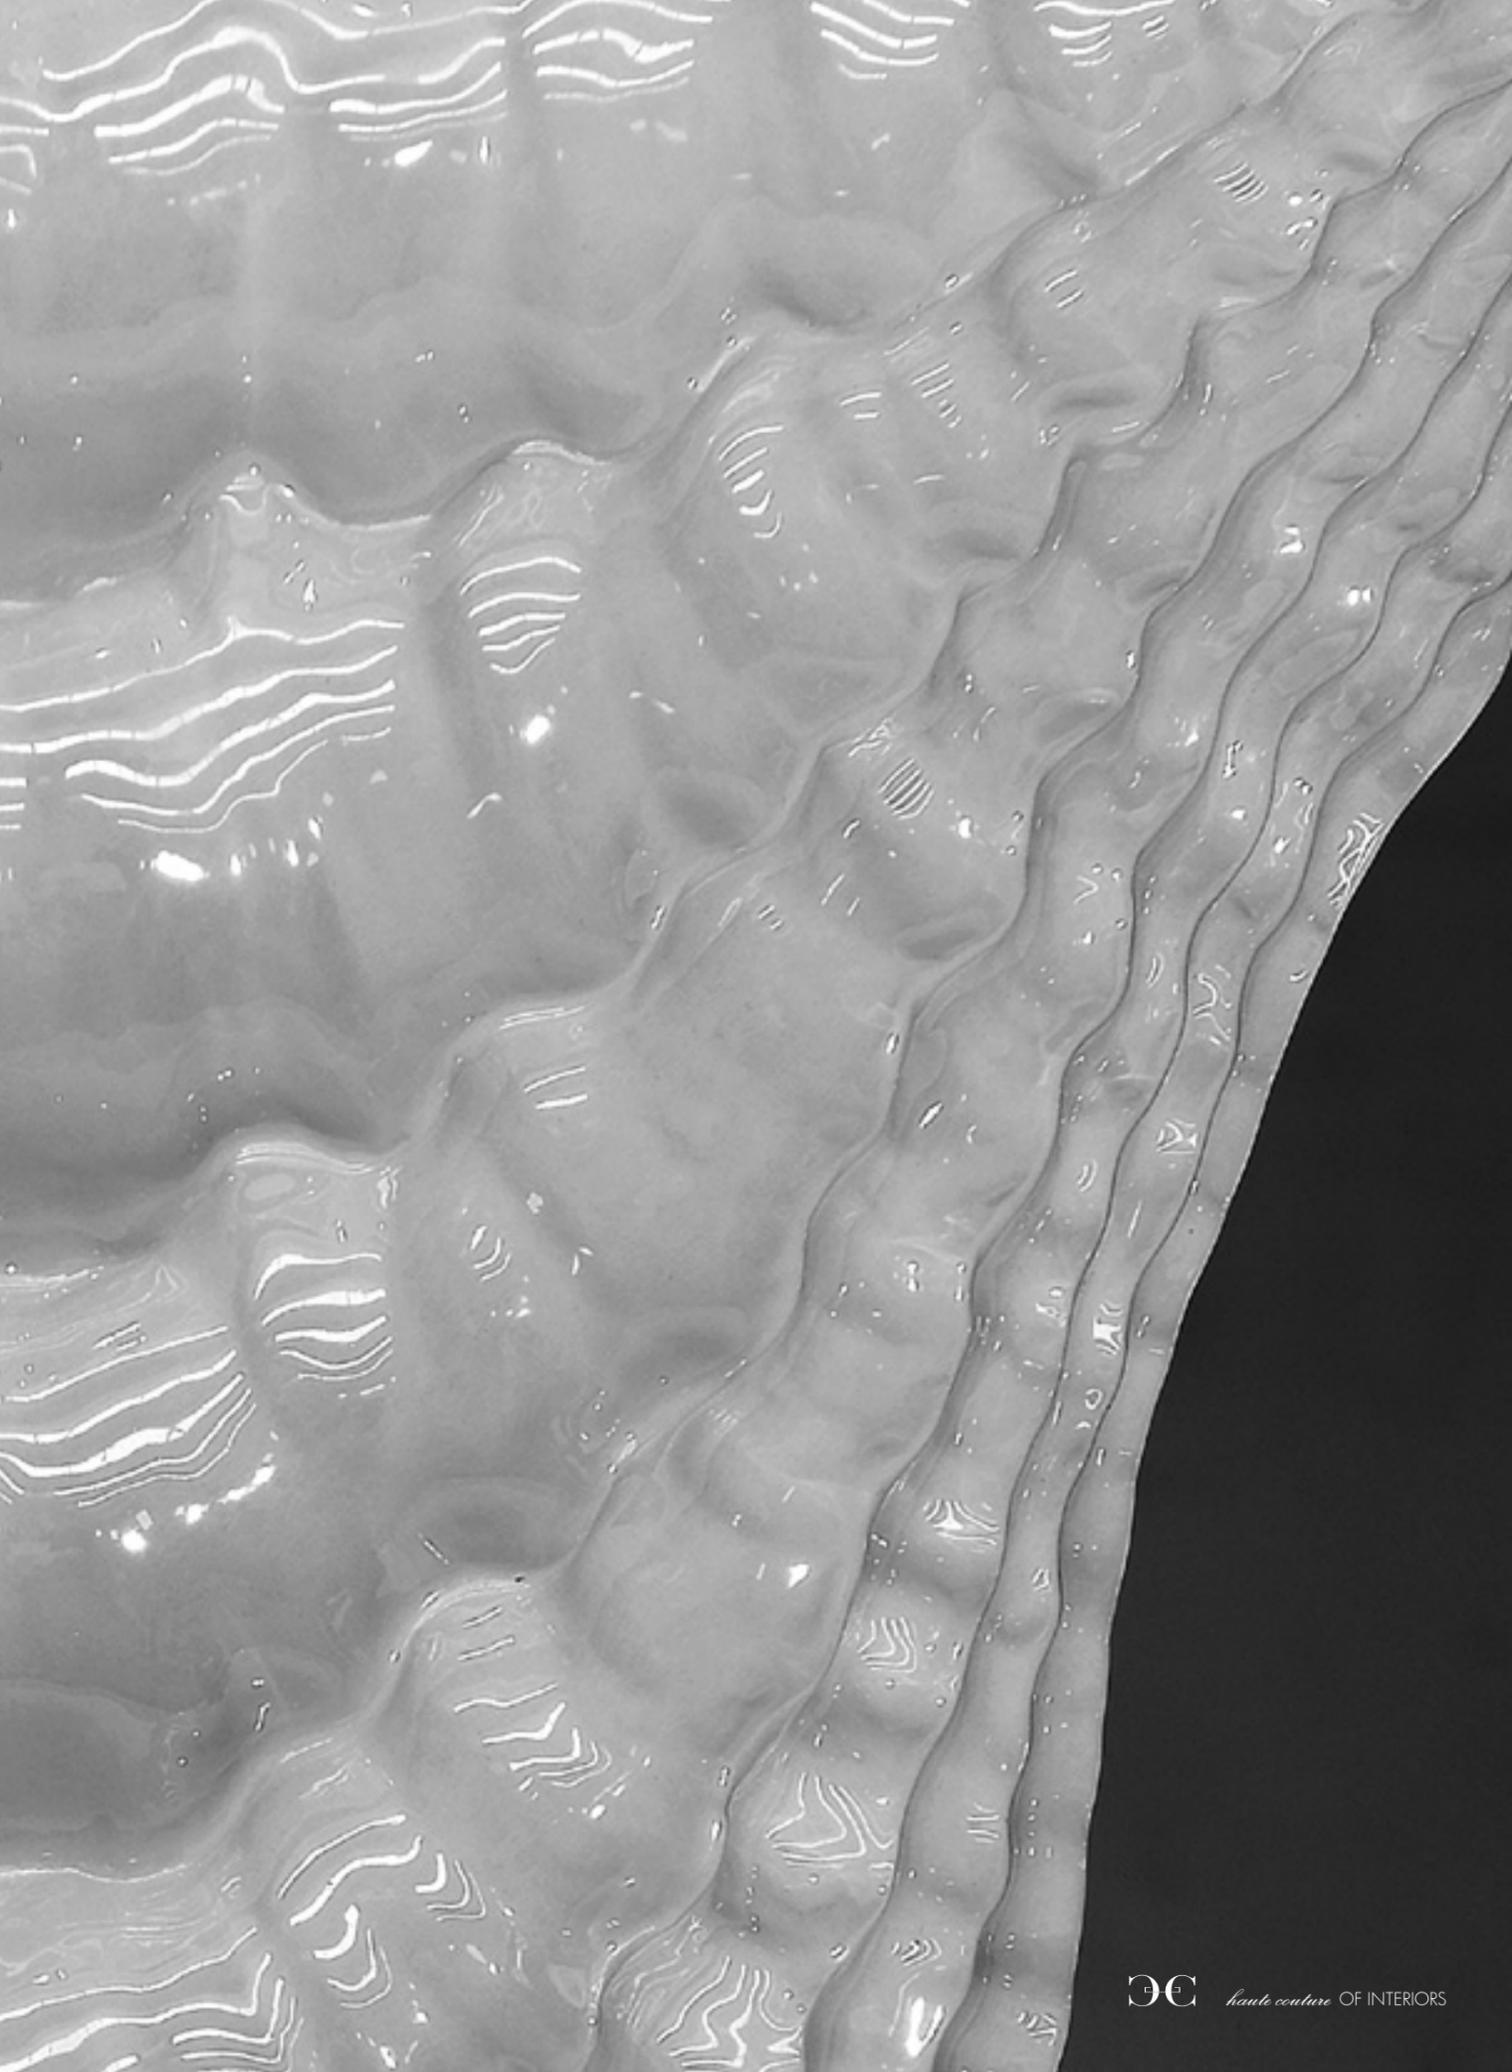

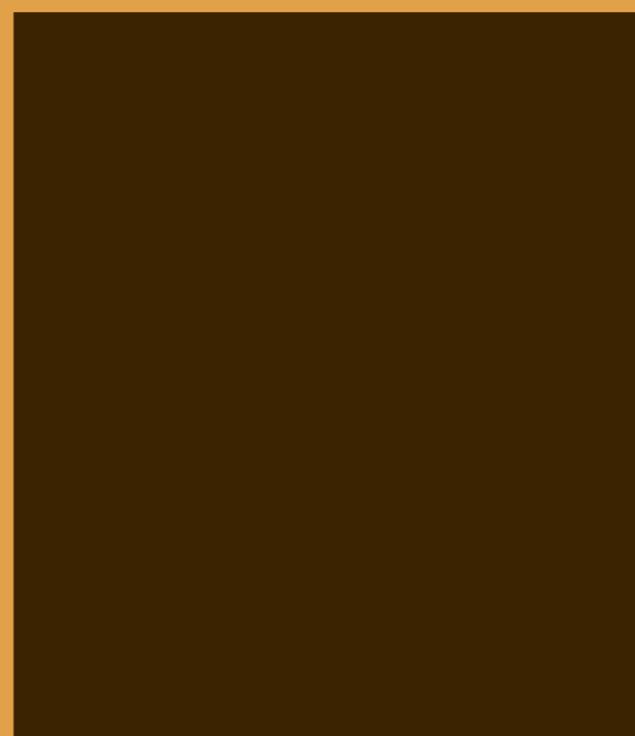

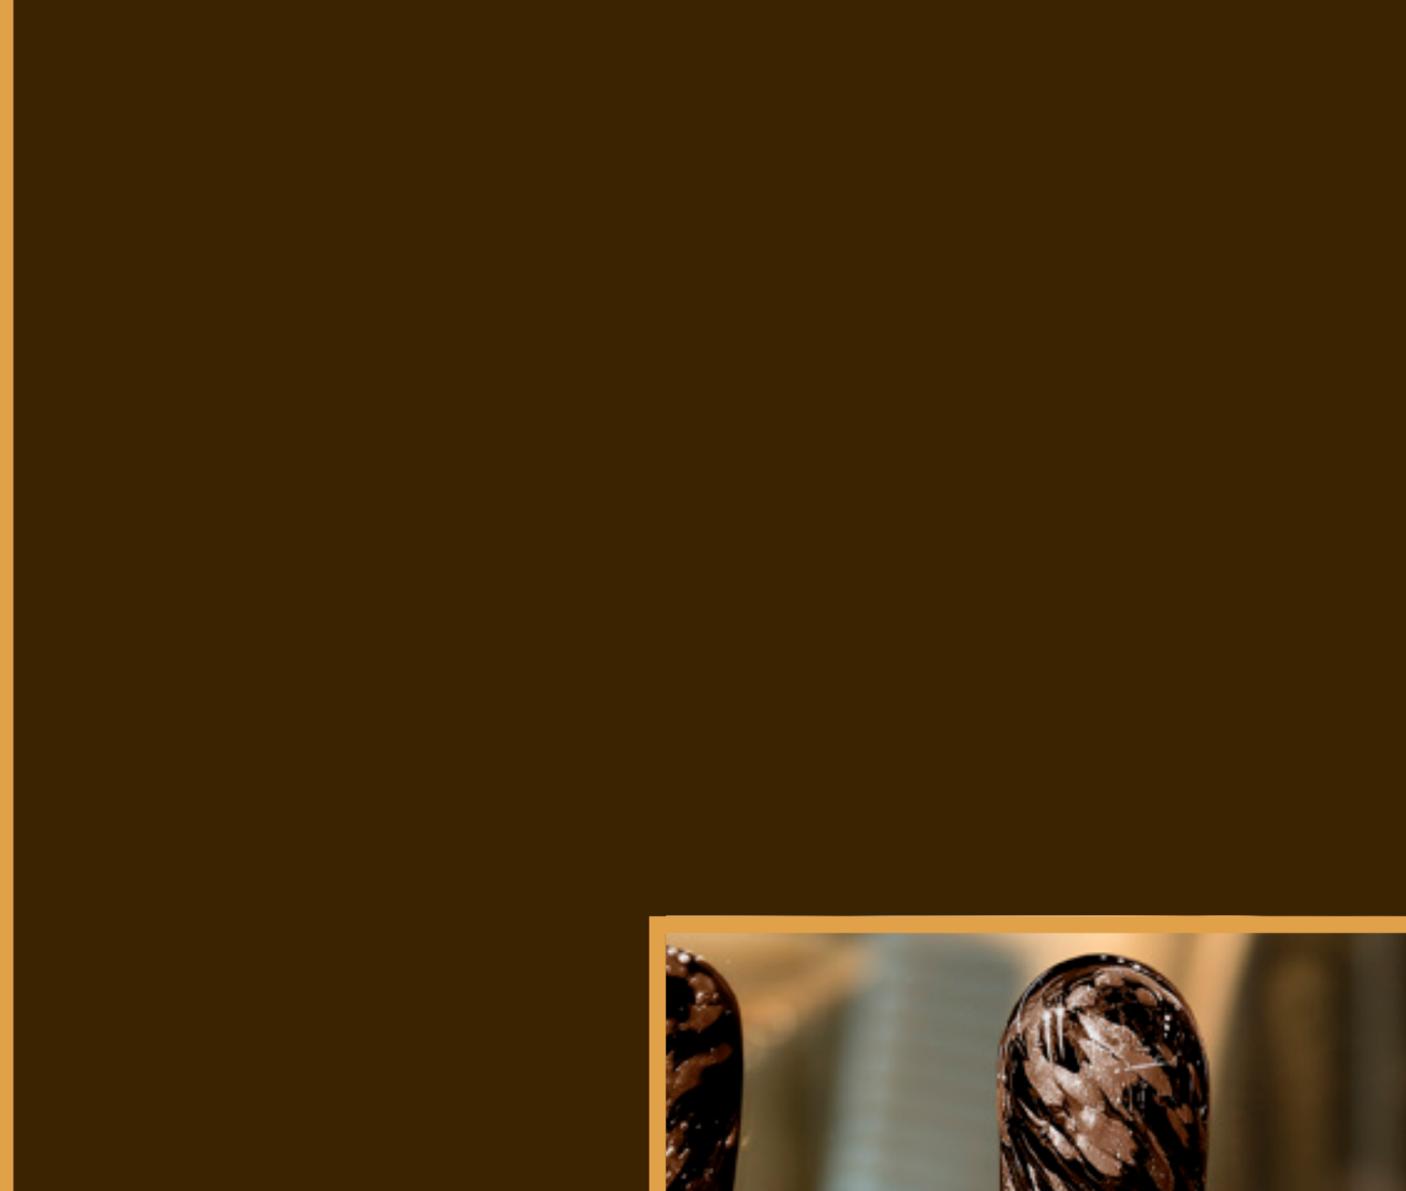

TRIBUTE TO LACQUERING

The lacquering process is based on the usage of shiny or opaque lacquers that are able to cover different kind of surfaces, embellishing the features of the items and making them more resistant.

The quality of the lacquering process depends not only on the type and on the quantity of the lacquer, but above all on the accuracy of the treatment made by decorator masters.

In this page the Crystal finish created by Cornelio Cappellini skillful masters is an extraordinary example of lacquering that from an aesthetic point of view is able to reproduce ice crystals on the surface, giving the name to the finish itself.

The manual skills are also the starting point to obtain a surface extremely pleasing to touch.
